

How many of you know how many towns are in Queens. Brooklyn, Nassau & Suffolk?

The answer is Queens-94, Brooklyn-85, Nassau-67 & Suffolk-107.

The new site gives us the ability to tell the public interested in commercial real estate something about those towns. Each town has their own profile page. The ability of inserting this information on the site also increases exponentially the site being found on the various search engines.

Glen Cove & Long Beach are the 2 towns that were setup as prototypes by our own Gabor Karsai & Paul Fetscher. Billii Roberti worked with Web By Design to edit the profiles for SEO.

We are now to asking all the members to pitch in and write the profile for the towns they service and know about. I have shown how to get to the Glen Cove & Long Beach below. Start on the Main page and click on the highlighted as shown and on the pages that come up. Mirror the prototypes giving a Community Description, Shopping & Attractions (e.g. Industrial areas). There is also a questionnaire you should fill out and return with the profile to izucker@cbcworldwide.com.

Long Beach Commercial Real Estate

Community description: Interested in buying or renting commercial real estate in Long Beach, New York? It's the perfect location for any business, especially a seashore-related one.

The City of Long Beach is located in Nassau County. There is abundant office, retail and industrial property in Long Beach, whether you wish to purchase or rent. Park Avenue, the main strip in Long Beach, boasts shops, services and restaurants along its length.

The average income in Long Beach is $68,012, the median age is 42 and 22% of the households are married with children. Although a year-round community, the population—38,764—doubles in the summer due to seasonal residents and tourists.

Shopping: The prime commercial real estate in Long Beach is along East and West Park Avenues, where there is plenty of retail space for sale and rent including ground level and multi-story offices with great views. Long Beach Boulevard, leading to Island Park, is also a flourishing commercial area.

Attractions: The boardwalk and the Long Beach Recreation Center offer amenities and programs for all ages. Long Beach is close to John F. Kennedy International Airport and less than an hour away from New York City.
